

Problem Statement:

- Our users are struggling with finding drinks to suit their tastes while developing healthy drinking habits. Most people may spend a significant amount of time trying different alcoholic beverages before they find a drink that attains both their ideal flavor and alcohol by volume. We seek to ease this process by matching one's tastes with numerous options to choose from, while also making sure they are aware of how the drinks will affect them in both small and large numbers.

Who is experiencing the problem?

- People that are experiencing these problems include individuals that are new to consuming alcohol.

What is the Problem?

- People waste time and satisfaction finding which drinks suit their tastes the best.

Where does the problem present itself?

- This problem can present itself anywhere alcohol is provided.

Why does it matter?

- Giving people guidance and suggestions about drinking can save lives, save time, and increase satisfaction while drinking.
